Fun fact:

Bees prefer blue, yellow, or bright white flowers that have a large landing surface and shallow shape. Provide bees pollinating options by choosing pollinator-friendly plants!

Did you know...

bees pollinate more than 16 percent of flowering plants, like the ones seen in gardens and parks in our communities? It's important to plant a variety of flowers that bloom throughout the growing season to provide continual pollinating opportunities.

Help the bee find his way to the flowers!
