

Tick Check

When you're active outdoors, chances are ticks are, too. Peak season can start as early as April and last until September, making it important to prevent tick bites while exploring the outdoors.

Take steps to prevent tick-borne illnesses such as Lyme Disease and Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever by checking these common hiding spots before heading indoors.

In and around your ears

Inside your belly button

Under your armpits

Behind your knee

Around your waist

On your scalp
and in your hair

Tick Check for Pets

When it comes to tick-borne illnesses, your pets are at risk, too. Anytime you and your pets spend time outside, take precautions to help prevent tick bites by checking for ticks hiding in these hard-to-find places.

Between their toes

Behind, inside and out of their ears

Under their armpits

Around their face,
chin and tail

Through their fur

Under their collar